

Dr. Can Kultur, currently Fulbright Scholar in Residence at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Indiana, visited area institutions April 15-16, 2015 as part of Bluefield State College's Windows on the World Lecture Series. Pete Sternloff of Bluefield, West Virginia, hosted Dr. Mihoc in his home.

Dr. Kultur discussed "Life in Turkey Today" with students, teachers, and administrators of Princeton Senior High School.

He discussed "Human Factor and Software Design" with computer science students of Professor Lionel Craddock and Dr. Adem Ozyvas of Bluefield State College and to business information systems students at Concord University. .

Dr. Kultur is an excellent example of an academician who knows how to commercialize knowledge. He not only teaches at Bilkent University in Turkey but his professional interests include human computer interaction, multimedia, technology adoption processes in universities, and instructional systems design and development. He has 10 years of industry experience in software engineering including various management roles. He is also one of the founders of a startup company in Turkey and is working on a distance education project to support learning vocabulary as a foreign language.

Dr. Kultur's visit to the area was funded by the Fulbright Outreach Lecture Fund, an activity of the US Department of State which is managed by the Council of International Exchange of Scholars, a subsidiary of the New York-based Institute for International Education. This project was also presented with financial assistance from the West Virginia Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations do not necessarily represent those of the West Virginia Humanities Council or the National Endowment for the Humanities.
