The Opportunity

Bluefield State University invites applications for the position of Vice President for Finance and Administration/Chief Financial Officer (CFO). This is a senior leadership role that offers the chance to make a meaningful and lasting impact at a historic institution deeply woven into the fabric of the Bluefield community and the broader Appalachian region. Reporting directly to the President, the VP for Finance and Administration/CFO serves as a trusted advisor and strategic partner on all matters related to fiscal management, budgetary planning, student financial services, and administrative operations, and just as importantly, as a visible institutional representative who cultivates strong relationships with vendors, contractors, state agencies, community partners, and other key external stakeholders. The ideal candidate will bring sound financial acumen and a collaborative leadership style, but will also understand that in a community like Bluefield, relationships matter. Whether negotiating contracts, working alongside state purchasing officials, engaging local and regional vendors, or representing BSU in the broader higher education landscape, this individual will be a trusted face of the institution beyond its campus walls. If you are energized by the intersection of mission-driven finance and authentic community engagement, this role offers a rare and rewarding opportunity to serve an institution that has been changing lives for more than 130 years.
